THE UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA

The Mission

The mission of The University of Arizona is to improve life for the people of Arizona and beyond through education, research, creative expression and community engagement.

Facing Alzheimer's Together

As one of the nation's leading research universities, The University of Arizona contributes to the goal of a world without Alzheimer's disease by:

- Providing leadership in brain imaging research
- Providing leadership in basic brain, memory, and aging research
- Providing leadership in the Arizona Alzheimer's Consortium education and outreach priorities
- Providing opportunities for community participation in basic research and testing new treatments
- Providing diagnostic and treatment services through its Alzheimer's and Behavioral Neurology Clinic and its Memory Disorders Clinic

About The University of Arizona

As a premier land-grant university, The University of Arizona plays a vital role in building a thriving state. The University offers the highest quality education, excels in creating new knowledge that has worldwide impact, and provides leadership and collaboration to address the challenging issues facing Arizona, the nation and the world. The University is about quality, discovery, and opportunity.

The University of Arizona is guided by the following priorities:

Academic Excellence: The University of Arizona must be a center for excellence in education and research. We must put people first. Our focus must always be on serving our students and supporting our faculty, professionals, and staff. An outstanding faculty is the foundation for academic excellence, attracting and educating the best undergraduate, graduate, and professional students.

Access and Success: An education at The University of Arizona must prepare students for a productive future and must be accessible to all who are academically qualified. Economic or social status cannot be a barrier. The University must engage, retain, and graduate its students in the greatest numbers possible.

Quality of Life and Societal Impact: In keeping with the University's land-grant mission, The University of Arizona must serve as an engine for economic development and as a source of inspiration that enriches individual lives and advances the collective wellbeing of our society. Across every discipline, and on a daily basis, the University is improving the human condition for the people of Arizona.
